

Flywire and Blackbaud Partner to Streamline Tuition Payment Experience for International K-12 Students in the U.S.

November 21, 2024

Flywire's integrated offering with Blackbaud will provide international students studying at over 1,000 U.S. independent schools with a streamlined payment experience, from enrollment through to tuition

Partnership strengthens Flywire's commitment to the K-12 education market in the United States

BOSTON, Nov. 21, 2024 (GLOBE NEWSWIRE) -- Flywire Corporation (Flywire) (Nasdaq: FLYW), a global payments enablement and software company, has announced a strategic partnership with Blackbaud (NASDAQ: BLKB), the leading provider of software for powering social impact. Flywire will become a preferred payment method for international students who pay their tuition and other related expenses to Blackbaud's K-12 school customers in the United States. Incorporating Flywire into Blackbaud's Tuition Management platform enables a seamless payment experience for students and helps private and independent schools streamline incoming payments, including tuition and enrollment fees, from students worldwide.

To boost international student enrollment, K-12 boarding schools and independent schools are enhancing their recruitment and retention strategies, from adopting digital outreach tools, to increasing support services for students, to diversifying their recruitment efforts. Schools are also looking to enhance their payment processes to reduce any barriers to enrollment. A seamless payments experience that simplifies currency conversion and cross-border transactions is particularly attractive to international families paying high-cost K-12 schools. Furthermore, schools that offer flexible payment plans and secure payment methods can make themselves more accessible to a wider audience, which may increase enrollment rates, particularly among international and non-local students.

A leading software provider for the K-12 market, Blackbaud recognizes the importance of streamlining the payment process for international students and schools. Tuition payments can range from $4,200 to greater than $29,000 annually for secondary schools in the United States, and students and families would traditionally need to rely on international wires and credit cards, which would come with complexity, lack of visibility into payments made, and high fees. With Flywire integrated into the Blackbaud Tuition Management platform, schools can provide real-time, secure and online payment processing functionality for families, while maintaining the existing reliable reconciliation process schools use with Blackbaud today.

Schools that use Blackbaud will also benefit from Flywire's out-of-the-box integration and around-the-clock multilingual support. This turnkey integration ensures tightly linked payment processing within the Blackbaud system. Both front-end and back-end users will benefit from easily accessing up-to-date balance and payment status in real time.

"As a trusted partner to K-12 independent schools, we are always listening to our clients and finding ways to innovate to make their schools run more effectively and efficiently," said Mark Davis, vice president, education products, Blackbaud. "Our Flywire integration will help simplify international payments from international families, which should improve international student enrollment for our customers."

"As Flywire continues to serve the K-12 education market, we're thrilled to partner with Blackbaud who brings meaningful relationships and a large footprint in the K-12 education sector in the U.S.," said Sharon Butler, EVP and GM of Global Education, Flywire. "Through our powerful, seamless integration, we are able to deliver exceptional payment experiences for students and schools alike - and we're committed to building on this foundation as the partnership continues."
